DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-10 are pending in the application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. Claims 3-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. The following eight different factors (see Ex parte Foreman, 230 USPQ at 547; Wands, In re, 858.F. 2d 731, 8 USPQ 2d 1400, Fed. Cir. 1988) must be considered in order for the specification to be enabling for what is being claimed:

Quantity of experimentation necessary, the amount of direction or guidance provided, presence or absence of working examples, the nature of the invention, the state of the prior art, the relative skill of those in the art, the predictability or unpredictability and the breadth of claims. In the instant case, the specification is not enabling based on at least four of the above mentioned eight different factors such as quantity of experimentation necessary, the amount of direction or guidance provided, presence of working examples, state of the prior art, unpredictability and the breadth of claims.

The specification mentions some assays for evaluating inhibition of human BACE activity, human cathepsin D activity and inhibition of cellular release of amyloid peptide

1-40 by the instant compounds and further states that in at least one of these tests, the agents of the invention show activity at concentrations below 20 μM (see pages 6 and 7 of specification). However, there is no teaching or guidance present in the specification regarding specific compounds tested in any one of these assays. There is no teaching or guidance present in the specification or prior art that hyperactivity of human BACE activity or human cathepsin D activity is implicated in the etiology of any neurological or vascular disorders. There is no teaching in the prior art that structurally closely related compounds having antagonist activity at human BACE activity or human cathepsin D activity are well known to have therapeutic utility in treating any neurological or vascular disorders. There are no working examples present showing efficacy of instant compounds in known animal models of any neurological or vascular disorders. The instant compounds of formula I encompasses hundreds of thousands of compounds based on the values of variables R1-R6, m and p and therefore, in absence of such teachings, guidance, presence of working examples and prior art, it would require undue experimentation to demonstrate efficacy of instant compounds in known animal models of every known neurological and vascular disorders and hence their utility for treating these disorders.

4. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

5. Claims 2-4, 6, 7, 9 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Regarding claim 2, the phrase "such as" renders the claim indefinite because it is unclear whether the limitations following the phrase are part of the claimed invention.

See MPEP § 2173.05(d).

In claim 9, it is not clear what is being treated or administered? Also, which disease condition is being treated and furthermore, what is the second drug substance?

Claims 3, 4, 6, 7 and 10 provide for the use of a compound, but, since the claim does not set forth any steps involved in the method/process, it is unclear what method/process applicant is intending to encompass. A claim is indefinite where it merely recites a use without any active, positive steps delimiting how this use is actually practiced.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

6. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

7. Claims 3, 4, 6, 7 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed recitation of a use, without setting forth any steps involved in the process, results in an improper definition of a process, i.e., results in a claim which is not a proper process claim under 35 U.S.C. 101. See for example Ex parte Dunki, 153 USPQ 678 (Bd.App. 1967) and Clinical Products, Ltd. v. Brenner, 255 F. Supp. 131, 149 USPQ 475 (D.D.C. 1966).

Allowable Subject Matter

8. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:

Claim 1 is allowed since the instant compounds of formula I are neither disclosed nor obvious over the prior art. In the prior art, Adam (EP 0 970 957, cited on applicant's form 1449) discloses diaza-spiro[3,5]nonane compounds which are closely related to instant compounds. However, the compounds of Adam differ in structure from the instant compounds and furthermore, there is no teaching, guidance or motivation in the prior art to modify the compounds of Adam to prepare the instant compounds.
